Conner is a graduate of the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall Law School. At Osgoode, Conner has developed his passion for advocacy through his involvement in judging and competing in moots.

In various Osgoode-wide and National advocacy competitions, Conner has won awards both as a team and individually (quarter finalist, semi-finalist, winning team, top oralist) and recently represented Osgoode winning the national championship (as the Defendant) in the Winkler Class Action moot.

Prior to law school, Conner graduated with High Distinction from the University of Toronto, obtaining an Honours Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy, Ethics, and Law. Alongside his studies, Conner dedicated himself to various youth advocacy initiatives in his capacity as a child welfare expert. While working with several charities and non-profits, Conner’s commitment to advocacy extended internationally, serving as an advisor to the United Nations on the UNCRC.
