Ginny has completed her first year of law school at Osgoode Hall Law School. She obtained a master’s degree in chemistry from the University of Guelph, and a Bachelor’s degree in Chemistry from the University of Waterloo.

Prior to attending law school, Ginny worked at a consulting firm as a patent agent in training, where she was involved in the drafting and prosecution of a variety of patent applications. During law school, Ginny has furthered her passion for intellectual property by volunteering at the IP Innovation Clinic at Osgoode. She has also discovered a love of moot, and has participated in the Lerner’s moot, the PubCon Moot (placing 4th oralist), and the BabyGale (placing 2nd respondent team).
