Lynne is Chair of the Executive Compensation practice. Her practice focuses on executive compensation, employee benefits and employment law issues in Canadian and U.S. public and private M&A transactions, initial public offerings and other business transactions. She counsels public and private company clients on executive compensation arrangements, including design, corporate governance considerations, implementation, and ongoing compliance. She has unique expertise advising on cross-border executive compensation arrangements and is one of only a few lawyers in Canada with this specific expertise.
