Rob is the Managing Partner of the New York office. His practice is focused on cross-border corporate and securities law, with significant experience in the United States and Canada.

As a Canadian lawyer currently, Rob provides trusted advice on structuring, planning and executing public and private cross-border corporate finance and M&A transactions, drawing on his familiarity with integrating Canadian and U.S. legal requirements.

Rob also advises on compliance with public company disclosure and corporate governance requirements. A significant component of his practice is devoted to advising on the structuring of financing and M&A transactions using the Canada/U.S. Multijurisdictional Disclosure System (MJDS). Rob further routinely advises U.S. issuers and underwriters on extending public and private offerings into Canada.

He has represented issuers and underwriters in cross-border financings in various industries, including mining companies and several major Canadian cannabis companies.
