Open government initiatives to increase transparency and accountability are expanding into the area of government contracting and procurement. However, private sector businesses need to protect competitive and sensitive information.

How can we strike a balance between the seemingly divergent goals of openness and confidentiality? Whether you are a public sector lawyer, or represent private companies contracting with government entities, join our expert panel to gain practical strategies for navigating the tension on a day-to-day basis and a greater understanding of the value of proactive disclosure.

Speakers:
Frank DeVries, Office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner – Ontario
Joanne Mitchell, The Regional Municipality of York
Elliot A. Smith, Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt LLP
John Wunderlich, John Wunderlich & Associates Inc., and Chief Privacy Office, JLINC Labs

Program Chairs:
Jordan L. Greenwood, Barrister & Solicitor
